Marion Continues To Swelter; Mercury High at 93 Yesterday.

5 DROWN IN STATE

"Not Much Change in Temperature," Forecast for Saturday.

Intense heat which was blamed for the death of six Ohioans yesterday continued unabated today without promise of relief.

Marion temperatures mounted steadily this morning, promising to match and possibly to top the high mark of 93 recorded here yesterday by Dr E H Raffensperger, local government observer. The mercury dropped 25 degrees from this mark to a low of 68 last night. A year ago, the temperature varied between a high of 94 and a low of 68.

A light shower of rain today at 2 30 p m brought hopes of a break in the torrid wave to sweltering Marion residents. The rain accompanied by a light breeze, brought only temporary relief and a slight drop in the temperature.

The mercury stood at an official 93 in Marion at 1 p m today and was rising steadily, it was reported by Dr Raffensperger. Thursday's reading at 12.30 p m was 90.

At Dayton it was 91 at 11 a m. Columbus had 85, the mercury shooting upward again after a brief rain. Youngstown had 80 a rise of 16 degrees in three hours. Akron reported 82, a drop of two degrees since 10 a m. In Cleveland it was 77.

"Generally fair tonight and Saturday with not much change in temperature" is the forecast announced at the government weather bureau in Columbus this morning.

Five Drown

Five Ohioans drowned yesterday trying to find relief in swimming, and one man prostrated fatally as the mercury climbed to various points between 90 and 99 degrees, an Associated Press checkup disclosed.

Mrs Robert W. Gresham, young Cleveland society woman, drowned in Lake Erie. Harold Minder, 14, off the same shore when an automobile inner-tube in which he was floating, developed a leak and sank.

The body of Helen Lemick, 11, was found by bathers in a swimming pool at Cuyahoga Falls. She had been missing several hours.

Luther Boling, 24, drowned in the Big Miami river near Hamilton when he suffered cramps. Wendell Watts, 9, drowned in Lees Creek, Fayette county.

At Cincinnati where the temperature reached 97 degrees, Joesph Fagin, 68, a garage mechanic, fell dead at his work. Numerous persons elsewhere in the state were prostrated.

Cincinnati reported five other deaths indirectly traced to the heat in addition to the six Ohio fatalities blamed on high temperatures. The mercury stood at 82 there at 8 a. m.

Toledo Gets Rain

Hamilton thermometers yesterday mounted to 99 degrees, while many other localities had temperatures only a few degrees less.

Seven tenths of an inch of water fell at Toledo within an hour this morning during a terrific thunder storm. Scores of machines were stalled in flooded sections of streets. Street cars were delayed when control boxes wre put out by lightning. One house was hit by lightning and a bolt ignited another. The temperature dropped to 72 from yesterday's high of 84.

A heavy rainfall in Columbus at 8 a. m. gave slight relief from the torrid wave. When the storm arrived the mercury tumbled, but later it went on the upgrade again. Weather observers expected a high of about 92 today.

COAL MINE MANAGER INJURED BY BLAST

Ohioan Badly Hurt as Dynamite Wired to Automobile Explodes.

By The Associated Press

CADIZ, O., July 15—Raymond E Sinclair, 38, of Hanoverton, personnel manager at the O. & P coal mine, near here, was in a hospital injured seriously by an explosion that wrecked his automobile early today.

Sinclair had left his car parked all night in front of his home. The explosion, which authorities believed was caused by dynamite, occurred when he applied the brakes after driving about 100 yards. Apparently the explosive was connected with the wiring system controlling the rear stop light, authorities said.

The extent of Sinclair's injuries was not immediately determined, though both legs were badly mangled. The blast hurled the car

HARPSTER MAN CHOSEN LEADER FOR CAMPAIGN

Deadlock Broken When Charles Lewis Is Elected by Central Committee.

PLATFORM DRAWN UP

Wets Fight for Repeal Stand Despite Assured Victory for National Party Plank.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., July 15. Delayed for two hours by a squabble over the election of a campaign manager, the Republican state platform convention was called to order at noon today by the temporary chairman Senator Simeon D Fess.

Practically all the delegates were on hand at 10 a m but the central committee was in a deadlock on the management question. Finally former Lieutenant Governor Charles Lewis of Harpster was elected to the post and the leaders went to the convention hall to participate in the third session.

Upsetting a precedent under which the gubernatorial candidate named the campaign manager, the committee followed the suggestion of Postmaster General Walter Brown a Hoover lieutenant, and elected Lewis by a vote of 21 to 11.

Ingalls Backs Johnson

The deadlock over the manager ship came late yesterday when David S Ingalls of Cleveland, the nominee for governor insisted his primary manager Earle L. Johnson of Painesville be named, and even after today's election, Ingalls said he would place Johnson in charge of his headquarters here.

Ed D Schorr of Cincinnati, state chairman was the unanimous selection of the committee yesterday but he declined. He said today he refused the job because he felt he was not satisfactory to the gubernatorial, senatorial and presidential candidates.

Political observers believe the selection of Lewis was dictated by the Ohio Hoover lieutenants, because they wanted one chairman to handle both the national and state campaigns. When it became evident this morning that the central committee was in a hopeless deadlock, Brown was called in, and he presented Lewis' name.

ROUTE 30S CLOSED - WEST OF MEEKER

Detour Established as Contractor Begins Work on Improvement.

All but a small part of the section of Harding highway, route 30 S, between Meeker and the west Marion county line was closed yesterday to permit the Federal Asphalt Paving Co. of Hamilton to proceed with the widening and resurfacing of the roadway.

This placed under detour practically all of the Harding highway between Big Island and the county line. A small section on the west end was left open to permit traffic from the west to reach route 37 interesecting route 30 S.

Traffic headed westward now detours south at Big Island a quarter of a mile, west five miles, north a short distance on the road that extends northward into Meeker, west five miles on a road a short distance south of Meeker, north on a road near the county line to route 30 S.

The entire closed section will be widened to 20 feet by concrete strips along the edges, and the roadway will be resurfaced, with a bituminous material. Five humps in the section between Meeker and the county line and a number of curves between Big Island and Meeker will be modified.

(Will Rogers Special)

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., July 15—Well, let's see what was staring us in the face from the papers today.

Nurmi, the great Finnish runner in the coming Olympics, run in here yesterday from New York. The other Finns arrived by plane later.

Roosevelt has actually started his presidential campaign. I see pictures all over the front page today of him fishing. Are we never to get an original candidate? Well at least he didn't stand in the creek with rubber boots on.

This campaign will be settled on fish. Do you want a deep sea fisherman in the White House, flounders and cod, or a big trout and perch man?

Charles H. Lewis of Harpster, (above), Wyandot county banker and former lieutenant governor of Ohio, will be Republican campaign manager in the Buckeye state next fall as the result of action taken by the G. O. P. state central committee in Columbus today, electing him by a vote of 21 to 11.

TRAIN RIDER IS KILLED HERE

Victim Jumps or Falls from Erie Passenger at Barnhart Street Crossing.

KNOWN ONLY AS JENKINS

Cinder in Eye of Companion Indirect Cause of Fatal Accident.

A train rider known by the last name of Jenkins was killed when he fell or jumped from a westbound Erie passenger train near the Barnhart street crossing early this morning. The body was found by the police about 60 feet from the crossing and taken to the Boyd funeral home on South Main street. Acting Coroner Dr C S Burnside and city police officials today were attempting to locate relatives of the dead man, whose address was given as Akron.

James Ryan of Akron, who reported the accident to the police, and who gave the man's name as Jenkins, in a statement to police this morning, said he, Jenkins and a colored man boarded the train at Akron early this morning, getting on between the tender and a baggage car.

Both Jenkins and the colored man had been drinking, he said, and it was only by keeping a firm hold on Jenkins that he prevented him from falling from the train. As the train approached the Barnhart street crossing, Ryan said, a cinder blew in his eye and as he released his hold on Jenkins to remove the cinder, Jenkins swayed several times and with a cry of "Here I go" fell or jumped from the train just as Ryan reached for him.

Because of the cinder in his eye Ryan was unable to say whether Jenkins jumped or fell.

At the union station, Ryan notified the train crew of what had happened also the police. Innumerable cuts and bruises were found about the head and face of the dead man while one arm was broken. It is believed death was caused by a fracture of the skull.

Ryan who was unable to give Jenkins' first name, said he was a World war veteran and had a sister living at North Hill, near Akron. No word had been received by the police or acting coroner, Dr. Burnside, at noon today.

Marion Scout Saves Life of Infant Cousin

GEORGE MASON, 16 son of Mr. and Mrs Eldie Mason of 883 Sheridan road, saved the life of his infant cousin at Golden lake near Angola, Ind., last Sunday by prompt application of training he had received in rescuing and resuscitating drowning persons, a news dispatch from Angola disclosed today.

Don A. Bish, 3, son of Mr and Mrs Clyde Bish of Ligonier, Ind., was taken from the water in an unconscious condition and revived after Mason had applied artificial respiration treatment for 20 minutes.

Mr Bish, father of the rescued child is a brother of Mrs Mason.

• • •

THE child, playing in a boat, evidently had gone down a third time when Mason reached him. The child's foot was seen protruding from the water by a camper who gave an alarm. Mason dived into the water at that spot and located the child by feeling bottom with his feet.

He brought the body to shore and used methods of resuscitation learned in his Boy Scout training to revive it. After 20 minutes, the child gave signs of life although it did not completely recover until the following day.

Mason is an Eagle Scout. He was qualified at Boy Scout Camp John A. Owens as a junior life saver.

The Mason family returned to Marion Monday after spending a week at the camp near Golden Lake.

HOOVER LIKELY TO SIGN BILL

Conferees Say President Will Accept Relief Measure Despite Publicity Clause.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, July 15. Whether the mammoth relief bill will be sent to the White House containing the provision for publicity to Reconstruction corporation loans remained a question today, while President Hoover served notice the responsibility would be on congress if that section is made law.

Representative Rainey, the Democratic leader said the house would insist on the disputed clause and "we accept the responsibility."

Conferences to adjust the differences between senate and house on the legislation had yet to agree.

After conferring with Mr Hoover Democratic senatorial conferees insisted he would not veto the bill even if publicity for the loans is kept in it.

Some of the conferees of the senate apparently were impressed by the President's objections to that provision and indicated they were not ready to yield to the house on it.

A White House statement says that since objections to the clause now were known, then the responsibility in the last analysis for whatever might happen must necessarily rest upon congress and that the board of the Reconstruction corporation met late yesterday and later advised the President of the damage that would result to the credit structure if this (the publicity proviso) were insisted upon."

CITY EMPLOYES ASSESSED.

HAMILTON, O. July 15. Hamilton municipal employes, already donating 10 per cent of their income to a relief fund, will be required to turn back an additional 5 per cent to the city treasury effective Aug. 1, city council decided. On Jan. 1 this will be increased to ten per cent.

Gun Girl "Safe" as Jurges Declines To Force Case

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, July 15—Bill Jurges, star Cub shortstop, stepped into court with a timely assist today to save his gun toting girl assailant from prosecution on a charge of assault with intent to kill.

After answering two questions put to him by the assistant state's attorney concerning the shooting, in which Miss Violet Popovitch Valli wounded him twice and herself once, Jurges halted in the midst of a sentence with:

"I have no desire to testify."

"Do you think you will have no ... trouble?" asked Judge John ... want of prosecution" ruled the judge, "and let's hope that no more ball players are shot."

Questioned as to her plans, Miss Valli said:

"After what's happened, I feel I owe it to my self respect to consider the entire matter a thing of the past."

Miss Valli, a divorcee, entered Jurges' room at the Carlos hotel adjacent to Wrigley field, on the morning of July 6. After making another vain bid for Jurges' love, she took a small revolver from her hand bag and started to shoot. In the struggle for the gun, Jurges was shot in the right side and left hand. Miss

CUTS OWN AND CABINET'S PAY

President's Salary To Be Reduced 20 Per Cent to $60,000 Annually.

OTHER CUTS ARE MADE

Reductions Will Be from Nine to 15 Per Cent Under Economy Bill Provisions.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, July 15. President Hoover [illegible] himself a $[illegible] a year reduction in salary [illegible] received this action [illegible] cabinet officers by 15 per cent.

The order [illegible] cabinet members [illegible] $[illegible] a year while the President [illegible] will draw at the regular [illegible] week end not meeting.

Mr Hoover himself it was said took a [illegible] cut as the maximum allowed under the law. Odd nearly he receives $[illegible] a year.

The following statement was issued at the White House:

The President has received the unanimous request from members of the cabinet that they should be subject to the maximum reduction of salaries possible under the economy bill. The President has therefore issued the necessary order by which they will be reduced 15 per cent instead of the alternative which would amount to 8 1/3 per cent under the furlough provision.

It was understood authoritatively that under corrections in the various departments would receive a 10 per cent cut under the same orders and assistant secretaries a nine per cent reduction.

Under the recent economy bill the President and other cabinet officials are permitted to return portions of their salary to the treasury.

Vice President Curtis was the first member to leave the cabinet meeting after the order had been announced. He read the first line of it but then smiled and handed the copy back to newspapermen, saying:

"Yes, I signed the order myself, yesterday."

He calculated that his monthly pay check now would be reduced from $[illegible] to about $1,000.

ALIBI FOR SANDERS IS FILED IN COURT

Man Held in Miller Murder Will Say He Was in Columbus Day of Shooting.

Charles Sanders, 29, colored will maintain that he was in Columbus when Green G. Miller aged DeCliff grocer was shot last New Year's day when he goes on trial in common pleas court Tuesday charged with first degree murder.

Notice that this would be his alibi was filed in common pleas court yesterday by Frank Wiedmann, attorney for Sanders who has been held in the county jail since he was indicted by the May term grand jury on a murder charge.

Sanders will contend that he was in the home of Levi Butler at 390 Parsons avenue from 5:30 to 9:30 p m on New Year's day, and that he was in the Edgar Ramseier home at 1682 East Fifth avenue from 9:30 p m until the following day, according to the notice. Several witnesses will be called to substantiate this alibi.

The state will charge that Sanders accompanied William Carter 18 also colored during an attempted holdup of the Miller grocery during which Miller was fatally wounded by revolver fire. Carter has signed a confession admitting that he fired the shots but the state holds Sanders equally guilty as an accomplice.

In a signed confession to police shortly after he was brought here from Newark, where he and Carter had been captured following an attempted holdup of a grocery, Sanders police say, stated that he was with Carter during the holdup of the DeCliff store.

Michigan Prosecutor Makes Allegation in Connection with Extradition Case.

SUSPECT SEEKS FREEDOM

Purported Slayer Asks Release on Grounds of Illegal Arrest.

By The Associated Press

DETROIT, July 15. Duncan C McCrea, assistant prosecuting attorney today charged that extradition proceedings by which Michigan sought to get James Licavoli nearly two years ago for trial on murder charge were denied by Ohio because of use of $30,000.

Charges were made before the opening of Licavoli's examination as answer to a statement of Licavoli's attorney that the arrest recently at the Ohio Michigan state line was illegal. The attorney, Edward N. Barnard, said Licavoli was arrested in Toledo, driven to Michigan Ohio line and forced to walk into Michigan, where he was arrested by McCrea and police. He said Governor White of Ohio ruled against a petition for extradition in Dec 1931, and claimed the matter settled by that action.

Never Heard of Case

McCrea then told recorders Judge Henry S Sweeny that the extradition paper "is the most valuable paper you ever saw."

"It cost $30,000 and is signed by a clerk in Governor White's office. The clerk passed on the entire case. He denied the petition and ordered Licavoli freed. Governor White did not hear of the case until it was all over. Then he fired the clerk."

McCrea refused to elaborate on this statement.

Judge Sweeny said if the statement of Barnard were correct, he believed he had no jurisdiction in the case and directed McCrea to prepare to prove the arrest was legal. A hearing was set for July 20.

Licavoli is charged with the murder of Henry Tupancy.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., July 15. Records in Governor George White's office here show that on Dec 11, last, R P Dunkle, secretary to the governor wired Toledo police advising them he would be in that city four days later to hear the James Licavoli extradition case.

On Dec 24 the extradition was denied and the Michigan assistant prosecutor Duncan C McCrea said at the time that the prisoner had set up a "fake alibi."

Dunkle is now executive secretary to the governor.

It was disclosed at the governor's office this afternoon that only one clerk had been dismissed since last December, and that this man was let out because of a cut in the budget for salaries and had nothing to do with extradition cases. This fact was brought out after the assistant prosecutor at Detroit said $30,000 was used in the extradition case, that a clerk signed the papers, and that when the governor learned of it he discharged the clerk.

The governor was in Camp Perry today inspecting the National guard.

Commenting on the charge, Dunkle said that he handled the case with the approval of the governor and State Finance Director Howard Bevis, an attorney.

OPPONENTS OF PARTY PLANK ARE DEFEATED

Chicago Platform Declaration on Prohibition Upheld at State Convention.

MAJORITY OVERWHELMING

Action Taken at Columbus Today After Lively Debate on Issue.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., July 15. The Republican party in Ohio will stand by the national platform declaration on prohibition. The state platform convention this afternoon overwhelmingly defeated a minority report which asked for repeal and local option.

On a roll call the wets mustered only 130 votes for the minority measure, while those opposed to it numbered 708.

The convention then adopted the majority report which indorsed the prohibition plank of the national convention. The Cincinnati delegation, backers of the repeal movement, voted against the majority report.

After adopting the platform, and meeting the new state campaign manager Charles Lewis, who was introduced by Chairman Fess, the convention adjourned at 1:30 p m.

Entertainment Provided

The Cincinnati delegation entertained the sweltering delegates during the delay before today's session opened by singing "Sweet Adeline" and "How I wy I Am."

When the session got under way, the temporary officers, Chairman Fess and Secretary Nolan Boggs of Toledo, secretary, were elected as permanent officers.

The convention then approved the list of presidential electors named by the various delegations last night.

After Senator Fess read committee reports, James E. Kinnison of Canton, chairman of the resolutions committee, presented the platform, as recommended by the committee. When he came to the majority plank endorsing the national convention prohibition plank, there was not a murmur from the floor, the delegates remaining perfectly quiet.

The repealists carried their fight to the floor when Chester Durr of Cincinnati took the platform to present a minority report on the prohibition plank. The report advocated outright repeal of the dry laws, and the Hamilton county delegation gave their representative a big hand when he concluded. The other delegates, for the most part, remained silent.

Each side was given 10 minutes to present arguments on the prohibition planks, and Durr opened for the wets.

The majority plank carrying only an indorsement of the declaration of the Republican national convention on the liquor question without mention of the state laws, went to the convention floor assured of sufficient support to insure its adoption.

The Hamilton county (Cincinnati) members of the resolutions committee fostered the minority report.

DENIES GUILT IN HAT STORE CASE

Ornstein Held Under $500 Bond for Hearing in Municipal Court Tuesday.

Pleading not guilty to a charge of obtaining money under false pretenses, S. L. Ornstein, brought back to this city yesterday afternoon from Athens on an affidavit filed in municipal court by Mrs. Margaret Owens of 342 Silver street, was being held today under $500 bond for a hearing at 10 a. m. Tuesday.

Ornstein, who said he represented the Mayfair System of Chicago, was charged by Mrs. Owens with having obtained $350 from her by representing she would be given the position as manager of a hat store which his company was planning to open in this city. Mrs. Owens charges Ornstein failed to keep his part of the agreement after obtaining her money.

A second man arrested with Ornstein at Athens yesterday, was released by the Athens police when Ornstein said he was not associated in the hat store venture.

Ornstein gave his age as 35 and his address the Briggs Hotel in Detroit, Mich. He was arrested by the Athens police after he had inserted an advertisement in a newspaper there, similar to one published in The Marion Star and which resulted in the negotiations declaring for repeal of national and state prohibition, the return of local option in townships and municipalities of Ohio and the immediate modification of the Volstead law.

Twenty of the 22 committee members signed the majority statement. Fred Schneller and Chester E. Durr, both of Cincinnati, cast the only dissenting votes in committee.

To Push Fight

Unsuccessful in substituting their repeal demand for the national platform indorsement the Cincinnatians served notice of their intention of filing a minority report and seeking determination of the question on the convention floor.

Schneller, Mayor C. Nelson Sparks of Akron and Alfred D'Lorenzo of Cleveland appeared before the committee to argue for repeal. Former State Senator George H. Bender of Cleveland, who was nominated for congressman-at-large on a platform advocating repeal, asked the committee to declare for repeal of the Ohio constitutional amendment and enforcement laws.

Confident of United Front

Despite an impending floor battle, managers of the convention sat back confident the prohibition plank of the national convention would go over with a bang, leaving the party united for a militant drive to defeat the Democrats in November.

After listening to Secretary of War Patrick J. Hurley, Hoover lieutenant, eulogize the President as the man of the hour, the convention resolutions committee went into a huddle last night and two hours later overrode a minority plan for a dripping wet plank in favor of the more conservative national plank.

Hurley, who spoke after U. S. Senator Simeon D. Fess had sounded the keynote, termed President Hoover the champion of American principles and declared the Democratic party and its standard bearer, Franklin D. Roosevelt, had "no program" for breaking the depression.

Not Specific Enough

Declaring that the Democratic presidential nominee dealt only in generalities, Hurley asserted "the part of the governor's (acceptance) address that intrigued us is this: 'I pledge you, I pledge myself, to a new deal for the American people.'

"Just what is this new deal? The governor does not enlighten us. Governor Roosevelt paraphrased the great Roosevelt who demanded a 'square deal.' Theodore Roosevelt told the people in Rooseveltian terms what he meant by square deal. The governor has left us to guess what he means by a new deal."

Hurley made no mention of the prohibition question. He did, however, review the accomplishments of the present administration.

No sooner had Hurley completed his address than the prohibition fireworks began.

Gilbert Bettman, candidate for United States senator and an outspoken wet, took the floor and declared for indorsement of the national convention plank, which he said after all declared for resubmission of the question and at the same time gave the people the right of protection under the laws.

Evidence of Disagreement.

Bettman's home delegation from Hamilton county was on its feet cheering when the Ohio attorney general took the floor, but when he said he stood on the Republican national platform there were cries of "No." Bettman seemed also to have alienated the drys who considered the national convention's prohibition declaration as more or less sanctioning the dry laws.

David S. Ingalls, Ohio's "boy" gubernatorial candidate, brought the convention to its feet several times with a declaration that he stood "for the repeal of all present prohibition laws" and for stricter economy in state government. Hardly had he gotten under way than a cry of "We want beer" rang from the floor and the galleries.

Senator Fess after calling the convention to order, received a noisy ovation when he termed President Hoover the only man living equipped to handle the problems of the day.

Rumbling of the prohibition fight were heard almost as soon as the first delegates arrived in Columbus. Numerous delegations—mostly from the large urban centers—announced they were wet and would be in the fight to the end.

The Eighth district is composed of Marion, Morrow, Crawford, Hardin, Wyandot and Hancock counties.

Stuart Kramer of Mansfield represented the Seventeenth district on the committee.

Ohio Republicans in convention assembled, extend cordial greetings to President Hoover, and pledge to him continued and loyal support. We gratefully acknowledge his fidelity to the traditional policies of the party, honor him for his steadfastness of purpose and his refusal to lead the nation into dangerous fields of experimental legislation.

We accept the issue of the coming campaign as one of sanity in government as contrasted with a policy of promised, but not promising, experiment. We reaffirm our faith in the soundness of party policies and in the leadership of the President.

State Administration—Republican holders of high office have uniformly discharged their duties with a high degree of ability and fidelity to trust. Their records are matters of public knowledge and a detailed recitation of accomplishments is unnecessary.

We reaffirm our belief in a Republican form of government, but recognize the need of a dispassionate and intelligent analysis of the mechanics of government. Government must be simplified and more nearly returned to its essential functions. Taxes have become oppressive, not essentially through excessive salaries and wages, but through the manifold activities of the state and its subdivisions. Any program of economy which disregards the over-growth of government is unsound, and without promise of relief. We pledge our party to an honest acceptance of this fact, and promise an administration of state government based upon the elimination of functions not strictly governmental, all insofar as the same may be safely done in our present social and economic state.

• • •

Taxation and Economy—We pledge the party in opposition to any additional tax levy for existing state purposes, and we urge the conduct of the affairs of the political subdivision in such manner as to make unnecessary the need of any increase in the percentage of vote required of the electorate in the authorization of any bond issue or voted levy submitted to the electorate for its approval.

• • •

Public Welfare—We acknowledge the duty of the state toward those unfortunate citizens who are in reality its wards. We favor a socially-minded and humane acceptance of this responsibility including any unnecessary capital expenditure over such a period of time as may be safely undertaken by the state without undue burden upon the taxpayers.

• • •

Education—The education of childhood and youth is an obligation of the state. We approve a system of state support which will establish and protect a minimum standard of education for all children of the state.

• • •

Highways—We urge the adoption of a highway program extending over a period of years to insure the orderly and continuous development and maintenance of our highway system, both primary and secondary. The revenue necessary for such new construction and maintenance should be derived from the users of the highway but without any increase in the gasoline and motor vehicle taxes.

• • •

Labor—The working man has always received the sympathetic assistance of the Republican party in the enactment of sound and beneficial legislation, and we pledge a continuation of this policy. We urge the prompt and expeditious settlement of worthy claims filed with the industrial commission.

• • •

Agriculture—It is self-evident that the economic welfare of agriculture is of vital concern to the entire state. An unfair burden of taxation in the past has fallen upon the farmer, and we pledge to agriculture an acceptance of this fact, and promise fair and sympathetic treatment in any tax program. We acknowledge the need of the restoration of agriculture to an equality with other industries.

We favor such legislative program as will enable the farmer to cooperatively develop a credit system adapted to the special needs of agriculture.

• • •

Conservation—We recognize the need of securing complete cooperation between the farmer and the sportsman, and promise the appointment of men to this important branch of our state government who are acquainted with the problems of conservation, and at the same time appreciate the respective interests of the farmer and the sportsman.

We favor reforestation and conservation of the woods, wild flowers and wild life and to safeguard the public health and to conserve acquatic life by the elimination of pollution of streams.

• • •

Public Utilities—We pledge ourselves to a legislative policy that will guarantee both to the users and producers of public utility services, rates that will be equitable and fair. We recommend such appropriations for the public utilities commission of Ohio as may be necessary to enable the commission to obtain the highest quality of personnel. It is to the interest of the public that such skilled services be made available for the prompt and intelligent determination of matters before the commission.

• • •

Banks and Banking—The events of the past two years have clearly shown the need of a revision of our banking laws for the better protection of the depositing public. A more stringent supervision is necessary and broader powers should be vested in the supervising authorities. We favor such a revision. Banks, other than those strictly commercial, and other financial real estate loaning institutions, should be provided with a system of central discount, otherwise a vital economic and social service will be unduly limited. We endorse the home loan discount bank system sponsored by the federal administration.

• • •

Prohibition—The Republican party accepts the issue of prohibition as a problem of government and entitled to be treated as such. We endorse the plank adopted by the national convention of the party relating to this problem. We interpret such plank as a mandate to the representatives of the party in congress of the United States promptly to submit this issue to the states to the end that they may determine whether the Eighteenth amendment shall be retained, repealed, or a constructive substitute adopted in lieu thereof.

• • •

Party Responsibility—The Republican party believes that political parties exist for the benefit of government. We challenge the sober-thinking citizens of the state, irrespective of party, to a consideration of the weaknesses of the primary system. The manifest difficulty of the electorate to acquaint itself with the qualifications of those seeking state office, is a fact, not a theory. Party responsibility can not exist other theoretically or actually, under the primary system. The Republican form of government demands party responsibility. We recommend to the consideration of the legislature, the enactment of appropriate legislation to the end that the political parties will be authorized to conduct state conventions for the nomination of candidates for state offices, for the guidance of the electorate in the primaries to be held at a later date.

• • •

Equality in Citizenship—To Negro citizens the party offers full and unhammeled participation in party councils, conventions, primary elections and all phases of party activity without discrimination of race or color.

We oppose all discrimination against Negroes in employment by the government or on projects financed wholly or in part by state funds; in the administration of unemployment relief whether financed by state appropriations or through local funds.

The party further pledges itself to cooperate to bring about an end to the crime of lynching.

• • •

Mining—It will be the purpose of the Republican party in Ohio to earnestly recommend and urge that Ohio state institutions use Ohio mined fuel as far as possible.

No Dry Spot in Minority Plank

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., July 15—Here is the prohibition minority plank of the Republican state platform resolutions committee scheduled to be submitted to the convention by Chester Durr, of Cincinnati.

"We endorse the national Republican platform recognizing the right of the several states to deal with the question of prohibition as their citizens may determine, and assuming the responsibility of state determination, we as Republicans of the state of Ohio, favor the immediate repeal of the 18th amendment to the United States Constitution, in accordance therewith.

"Pending action on the 18th amendment we favor the immediate modification of the Volstead law so as to permit the manufacture and sale of liquors for beverage purposes of such alcoholic content and under such regulations as will promote temperance.

"We favor the immediate submission by the general assembly to the people of Ohio of an amendment repealing section 9, article 15, of the Ohio constitution, the adoption of an amendment to the Constitution providing for township and municipal local option.

"Pending such submission we favor the repeal of all state laws passed in conformity with or relating to said section 9, article 15.

"We favor the passage of state laws regulating the manufacture and sale of liquor for beverage purposes in Ohio to the end that the traffic may be controlled, the cause of temperance advanced and the state and its subdivisions receive revenue therefrom."

MUCH TROUBLE in South America. Uruguay and the Argentine have broken off diplomatic relations, do not speak.

Brazil's revolution may be ended soon.

Paraguay and Bolivia have a quarrel about the Gran Chaco boundary. There are revolts in Peru and Ecuador.

Under ordinary conditions all this would be the cue for some other nation, European or Asiatic, to step in and annex territory. The Monroe Doctrine prevents that, and South America ought to know it.

CERTAIN TEACHERS in Chicago, paid no salaries in many months, have been absolutely unable to pay tax on their homes. Now the city that didn't pay their salaries threatens to seize their houses and put them out. The government reconstruction fund was able to advance eighty million dollars to one Chicago bank in trouble, and doubtless advanced it wisely. Why can't it help Chicago in its financial troubles, taking for security Chicago city bonds? Anybody who knows the people of Chicago know that those bonds would be ultimately as good as any in the world, in principal and interest.

COMMITTEE ACTS TO FOIL ROAD BANDITS

Chicago Secret Six Announces Plan To Protect Trucks from Hi-Jackers.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, July 15—A plan to sweep the hijacker of farmers trucks off highways leading to the nation's big cities was offered today by Alexander G. Jamie, chief investigator of the secret six.

He proposed a system of preferential thoroughfares on which city, county and state authorities would focus incessant vigilance. His crime fighting organization has found such strategy highly effective in combatting banditry in Chicago's arterial streets.

Jamie's offer was spurred by recent protests of Michigan authorities against new hijacking outbursts and he invited Illinois' neighbor states to adopt the plan at once under cooperative interstate and intra-state agreements.

Hijacking Jamie asserted no longer exists in the Chicago streets which the secret six has designated as preferential. They are under heavy patrol of police squads.

The idea was developed here when 1,600 business houses, weary of thefts of valuable truck cargoes, turned to the secret six. Not one case of "hijacking" has been reported on the patrolled streets this year, according to Jamie.

But the highways outside of the city along which southern Michigan fruit and vegetables and northern Indiana produce must travel to reach the city are still menaced. Similar conditions persist in the environs of other large cities, police report.

With harvest time at hand, thousands of heavily laden trucks set out nightly for the markets here.

MISSING BABE FOUND DEAD IN CESS POOL

Six-Day Search Ends; Coroner Investigating Cause of Child's Death.

By The Associated Press

MINNEAPOLIS, July 15—Twenty-months old Leslie Delano sought six days as a possible kidnaping victim, dead.

His body was recovered from a cess pool near his suburban Columbia Heights home, just a few hours before the 125 national guardsmen who aided police and neighbors in a widespread hunt, were to have been recalled.

Whether the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Delano met an accident death or was slain, Coroner C. B. Thurston was unable to determine. He planned further inquiry today.

Thurston said he was unable to decide how long the baby had been dead, but indications were death had occurred from one to three days ago.

The catch basin had been examined Sunday by Columbia Heights police.

The sewage line connects several homes of the neighborhood with a nearby swamp and investigators said the boy might have fallen into the system at another point and the body washed into the basin after recent rains.

Leslie was last seen alive by a neighbor boy, a half hour after his mother missed him.

"My son, who is seventeen years of age, suffered from Asthma from the time he was seven months old. Lately he had several attacks so severe that he was unable to lie in bed, and could only sleep for brief intervals in a kneeling position, resting his head on a chair. I persuaded him to try ZO-RO-LO, and now after taking three bottles he is able to sleep in bed and is continuing to improve."

$100,000 Spent To Perfect This Perfumed Mist ... The Ideal Way to Kill All Flies and Mosquitoes

Fly-Tox was developed at Mellon Institute of Industrial Research by Rex Research Fellowship. Ten years have been spent in perfecting it, and more than $100,000.

It is based on extracts from flowers of Japan, which insects cannot tolerate. An extract pleasant in odor, harmless to people, stainless to anything. But every fly or mosquito perishes quickly at a touch of the mist it creates.

These pests are your deadly enemies. They carry disease germs to infect every food they touch. Their every bite is poison. Over 30 diseases are carried in this way. Many thousands of children, every year, die from their contaminations.

Fly-Tox, used rightly, kills all these pests at once. The way is easy and pleasant, the results are sure, the cost 1 or 2 cents per room.

This new Fly-Tox—based on flowers—is many times as effective as methods of the past. Every lot is tested on flies in our laboratory to insure its quick effects.

FLY-TOX ONLY

A Rex Research Product

Use Fly-Tox only, and always in the new-type Fly-Tox sprayer. Spray to the ceiling, to create in your room a cloud of all-pervading mist. As this mist falls, every fly or mosquito dies at its touch. Yet no harm to people, no offense, no stains. Accept nothing less effective when the safety of your home is at stake. Sold in a million stores the world over. Get Fly-Tox now. Made by the Makers of Moth-Tox.

New-Type Sprayer FREE

Retail Value, 40c

Fly-Tox should be used in the new-type Fly-Tox sprayer. A new invention, perfected for Rex Research.

This sprayer creates a floating mist, instead of tiny drops which fall. That mist permeates the room, like a cloud of gleam. Thus it reaches every insect, high or low. Old-type sprayers fail to do that.

Each plunge of the Fly-Tox sprayer sends out 180,000 particles of mist. A few plunges fill a room, at a cost of only 1 or 2 cents. Thus Fly-Tox goes several times as far.

This is so important that we gladly give this new-type sprayer to anyone intending to use Fly-Tox. Just mail the coupon for it. That this new-type sprayer can be used with Fly-Tox and Moth-Tox only. Clip coupon now.

Good Signs.

Professional pessimists and skeptics can look down their noses and wag their heads all they please about the way America has received the news that hog and cattle prices in the agricultural belt are mounting. It may be, as they say, that one swallow doesn't make a summer, that people should know better by this time than to believe anything that sounds like good news and that the favorable fluctuation in prices is only seasonal. But there is nothing unbalanced in the public's attitude in the presence of these good signs. It is as sane as the optimism of Pearl S. Buck's Chinese farmer when he saw his "good earth" come out from under the flood in time for him to get in another crop.

If one characteristic of depression is a consistent fall in the level of commodity prices, it follows that a characteristic of inflation will be a rise in commodity prices. It is the belief that hog and cattle prices are sufficiently important to cause a general rise that cheers the nation. Farmers with hogs and cattle to sell don't need to generalize; their state of mind is improved directly by a return that makes it profitable for them to stay in business.

There is no inclination to exaggerate the importance of any of the good signs that may appear in these darkest days of the depression. There is, however, an unlimited surge of feeling in the public's consciousness that improvement will be made eventually. A rise, even a slight one, in the prices paid for hogs and cattle is a good sign.

Quartered in Washington.

As anticipated, appropriation of money to pay fare for veterans of the World war wishing to leave Washington is not sufficiently alluring bait. The movement of the bonus marchers continues in the wrong direction. Encouraged by the hope that congress can be intimidated if they stay long enough, the marchers are showing no disposition to drop the fight for immediate payment of the bonus.

There action is, by far, the outstanding symbol of the present condition of democratic government. It is on trial before its people, its advocate. The prosecution consists of minorities, such as is the unhappy group of bonus marchers. The defense is a certain indefinable spirit in the majority which refuses to yield to the pressure of minority demands.

It is a serious business in every one of its many aspects. Failure to pay the bonus would be accepted by the minority as evidence that their government has failed them in their hour of greatest need. It does not matter that the unjustness of their demand for payment can be demonstrated by the record of the transaction which gave them promise of the money in 1945. They are not asking alone for money due them; they are appealing for money that they need.

Payment of the bonus, on the other hand, would be accepted by the majority as evidence that democratic government's first principle, the greatest good for the greatest number, had been sacrificed to fear—worse yet, to imperative demands arising from an economic situation too complex and serious for popular government to handle. Whatever the outcome may be, this nation will emerge from this particular passage of its history with scars that will be a long time healing. The largest group of dissatisfied citizens ever assembled for a common purpose is quartered in Washington and determined to stay until it has forced its will on the government. There can be nothing but unfavorable results in attendance on such an action.

Uses of Ingenuity.

Few of the clever gentlemen who make a living opening safes and strong boxes belonging to other people know Charles M. Courtney, master of them all. It is his good fortune to have a title—president of the American Association of Master Locksmiths—and a clean record with the police.

Unfortunately, the field for honest safe openers is severely limited. Otherwise, there might be more of those instances yearned for by goodhearted people in which light-fingered gentlemen with remarkably acute hearing and keen minds have an opportunity to turn their skill to good account.

Mr. Courtney, a native of New York City, returned recently from Europe where he did two "jobs"—both a credit to his profession. One was the opening of certain strong boxes recovered from the sunken liner, Egypt, which has been the scene of highly engrossing salvage operations that have been followed closely by American newspaper readers. The other, more in keeping with traditions of safe-opening gentry, was the opening of a musty old safe in the cellar of a German castle—a safe which had defied the curious since 1918. Mr. Courtney performed both in his usual good style, with a minimum of trouble and—source of envy to yeggmen—no noise whatsoever.

By his own admission his honesty may be more a matter of precaution than instinct. It is his practice never to see what lies behind the doors he opens—a fact which becomes more impressive upon thinking it over. Picking a lock or listening to the dull click of safe tumblers is the extent of his interest.

The End Must Be Near.

Impending adjournment of congress has been hinted many times the last month, but merely superficial examination of the work remaining to be done was sufficient each time to prove that the wish was father to the thought. Though it is plain enough that the congressional balk a-wave is worse than the bite, even the bark is annoying. When it is known that the session is drawing to a close, suspense becomes more than usually trying for the public temper.

This time there are facts to accompany the wish that the country may be relieved soon of the extra strain of following congressional action. The work of the house and senate is almost finished. The last of the annual appropriation measures has been disposed of and when the relief bill finally is adjusted to conflicting demands by the administration, the senate and the house the last of the popularly discussed pieces of legislation will be history, so far as this session is concerned.

Changing attitudes toward congress are the sign of no deeper mystery than the greener grass on the other side of the fence. Despite some protests last winter, when congress convened, there was genuine relief over the prospect that the federal government's resources were to be placed at the disposal of business. As the months have passed, however, relief has been transformed into apprehension lest the servants of the people in Washington lose their heads completely and destroy the very strength they were trying to protect. It is, therefore, with genuine relief again that the end of the congressional session is foreseen. It may make no difference, but the first few days without congress will come close to being peaceful.

Although in these days nearly every one in business is trying to land new customers, some are satisfied with holding the ones they have. That is the way a jailer in an Oklahoma town felt about it a few nights ago after he went out to join in a futile chase for bank robbers and on his return found cell bars sawed and three prisoners gone.

Tenth Olympiad.

Americans are sorry they can't turn out en masse for the Olympic games. They are sorry they can't be out on the west coast this week-end to witness the thrilling competition that will determine the composition of their country's team. Being sorry, they can hope only for a high degree of enthusiasm that will enable Los Angeles and California to make the success of the games that their preparations deserve.

When the parade of nations takes place the last of this month and President Hoover officially declares that the games are open the United States will be host to 2,000 of the finest athletes in the world. Housed in a city built to order, competing in places that will be dedicated by the superb performances destined to be made in them and welcomed with all the sincerity that a generous nation can offer, they will be encouraged to believe that their host this year is the most enthusiastic and thoughtful that ever stood sponsor to the Olympic games.

From the record of the games since their revival it appears that there is one thing over and above physical accommodations that Americans may be able to offer this year for the success of what is supposed to be a friendly international meeting. Bickering and bad sportsmanship has marked every one of the nine previous Olympiads. Improvement was evident in 1928, though spectators left much to be desired that year. On the whole, the claim that the games promoted international good feeling has been made to sound ridiculous by the wrangling that has characterized them.

Americans like to believe that they stand for that particular kind of generosity in competition which is called sportsmanship. Could there be anything finer to add to their record of preparation for the 10th Olympiad than commendation for promotion of a friendly feeling the year they acted as hosts?

A Marion Ind iceman made a hole in one in his first golf game, probably as a result of his being exceptionally cool headed.

Comment of the Press

THE WAY GROWS HARDER.

Seems like ever since we can remember reading a newspaper, the wrinkled, smiling old face of John D. Rockefeller has been peering out from the pages along with the announcement telling that he was celebrating another birthday and, in each case he has always declared he would live to be 100 years old. As time goes on, we're becoming more and more convinced that he may do it. If he fails, it will be about the first major project in which he was vitally interested that didn't go through as he had planned.

However, he is now living on borrowed time, having gone beyond the allotted four score and 10. The way that leads on past the remaining seven milestones needed to round out the century long journey is extremely hazardous and difficult. Millions unite in the hope that he will make it.—Ohio State Journal.

FISH THAT SPARKLE.

All other fish stories must sound stale and profitless in the light of the latest one from Paris. It is, indeed, a "whopper." Not particularly on account of size, but because of attributes so foreign to the finny tribe that the tale would be almost fishy were it not vouched for by the correspondent of the London Daily Telegraph.

Nor has it any relation to those patient persons who from time beyond the ken of men have dangled their legs over the parapet along the tranquil quays of the left bank of the Seine in apparent unavailing purpose. The habitat of this aquatic vertebrate lies in warmer water than those which meander placidly through the plains and meadows of the Ile de France and Normandy. South America is the playwater of the Electrophorus Gymnotus electricus, more vulgarly yelpt gymnote.

Now the gymnote is no ordinary fish. It is a sort of submarine Edison Electric Illuminating company. Somewhere in its scaly form it hides a regular electric battery which generates actual "juice." Lamps have been lit by it. The report is silent upon the subject, but one imagines the battery is obviously of the dry variety. Six specimens of these living waterway traffic lights are now swimming around in the Parisian Musee Permanente des Colonies.

There is something pleasantly and singularly appropriate in the fact that these "lightfish" from the tropics are now adding their genial luster to that of ancient but ever gay Lutece.—Christian Science Monitor.

Daily Guide to Health

BY DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND.

Best Preventive of "Auto-Intoxication."

An individual's destiny, his happiness, efficiency and even his span of life may be dependent on the condition and action of his intestines. The welfare of this portion of the body determines largely his general welfare.

There are about 30 feet of tubing in the human abdomen divided into two parts. The upper portion constitutes what is known as the "small intestine," a marvelous laboratory where the food is transformed into products suited to the needs of the body. The lower portion, known as the large intestine or colon, acts mainly as an avenue of escape for waste matter.

Prompt and complete elimination of this waste matter is most important. Good health demands it.

The walls of the intestine contain muscles which contract, pushing the contents forward. When these muscles become weakened, constipation is the result.

If the character of the food offers insufficient stimulation to the bowel, or if some of the digestive juices are not of proper composition, waste matter accumulates in the colon and there becomes hardened from the absorption of the water constituents, then "auto-intoxication," with all its train of ills, comes to impair the health.

It can be readily seen that the first step in the prevention of constipation is to take regularly a diet containing foods that will encourage the intestines to do easily their normal work. These foods should be chosen with care.

Coarse breads, cereals and vegetables all contain material that is not absorbed into the system. Fruit juices incite the bowel to action, and should constitute an important part of the diet.

Proper training in elimination should begin in babyhood. Neglect in this matter can become decidedly detrimental to the welfare of an infant or older child. Drinking sufficient water during the day and taking fruit juices will help. There should be regular times for eliminations. These are precautions upon which every parent should insist.

The discomfort of chronic constipation often leads the sufferer to resort to medicines to get relief. Habitual use of cathartics for the "cure" of constipation is apt to be harmful. Certain medicines stimulate the bowel, but require increased doses to stimulate their action. Mineral oil and agaragar are the least objectionable of remedies of this nature. Enemas may be used as an emergency measure, but their continued employment is not to be recommended.

Proper food, the drinking of sufficient water and regularity in evacuation are slow, safe methods of curing constipation. Prevention is the important thing.

Highlights of Ohio History

AHEAD OF HIS TIME.

Efforts to improve the Ohio river for navigation hark back to July 4, 1783 when there was read before the Continental congress a communication from Christopher Colles, distinguished Irish engineer, setting forth that the river was capable of bearing an immense tonnage of shipping from Fort Pitt to the gulf with only the interruption of the falls near Louisville and this could be obviated by a lock canal. The crux of his proposition was that if congress would sell him a tract of public lands at the falls he would agree to construct and operate a lock canal and charge passing vessels such tolls as congress and himself might agree upon as fair and just. He was a little ahead of the times with his proposition. Such a canal was long afterward constructed along the Kentucky shore, but the young nation, just out of a long war for independence was in no position to take up internal improvements so far ahead.

"Any other fellow would give his head for my chance, I know—it's wonderful and I owe it all to you, but all the same ..." He broke off.

"Mr. Anderson says that this is a great opportunity for a man with ambition and energy," she said quietly.

Merriman nodded.

"I know—it was decent of him to choose me... Of course I know it is all your doing."

She half shrugged her white shoulders.

"Oh no. I only just mentioned it. I said you were a friend of mine."

"It was kind of you, Sondra."

The silence fell again.

It was very quiet in the little restaurant.

Merriman said suddenly: "The boat leaves at 11 o'clock on Friday morning."

Sondra's white teeth clenched suddenly on the ivory stem of her cigaret holder.

"Boats often go at 11 don't they?" she hazarded.

"Do they? I don't know."

Merriman lit another cigaret. The little tray between them on the table was already full of half smoked cigarets which he had lit and allowed to go out.

"I wonder how long it will be before I am home again," he said abruptly. "Anderson said five years he thought."

He carefully avoided her eyes.

"Five years is not such a very long time," Sondra said.

"Isn't it? It's long enough. All sorts of things will have happened. I expect I shall feel a stranger in a strange land."

"You'll have so much to tell us all. The wonderful things you will have seen. I believe the voyage is marvellous."

It was clever of her to speak so quickly she thought; she was sure that nobody would have guessed from her even voice, the torment she was suffering as she sat there, smiling and outwardly indifferent, talking so platitudinously.

"I've never been for a long voyage," Mark answered.

"Haven't you? I've been as far as Madeira. We had a wonderful time on board."

"My best steps at Madeira."

"Does it?"

She knew perfectly well where it stopped, how long it took, the date it arrived, everything about it. Already in tortuous retrospection she had seen herself as one of the little knot of people who on Friday morning would stand on the pier, smiling and trying to make conversation till the moment when the boat went slowly out of the slip. Already she had lived through the agony of farewell and had asked herself how she would be able to bear those last moments.

She had several times sailed herself and had looked with idle curiosity at others, left behind with tears in their eyes ... and now, on Friday, she would be one of them—left behind perhaps for ever.

And it was her own doing—she had brought this about, but for her Mark might still have stayed in America where sometimes she could have seen him.

But what would have been the use? She could never have married him, could never have had the courage to face poverty which life with him would mean as his wife. Cheap flats, a mean house, the eternal grind of trying to make ends meet on nothing a year, growing discontent and disillusionment, till finally love died, and they would be left two creatures tied together perhaps hating one another and only longing to be free.

She raised her eyes slowly and looked at him.

He was a little pale though his lips smiled determinedly as their glances met.

"If I make a success of it, I shall owe it all to you," he said, and she answered with quiet conviction:

"You will make a success of it, Mark."

He moved his hand towards her a little as it rested on the table then drew it quickly away again.

"I suppose we ought to be going."

Sondra shrugged a little.

"Is it very late?"

"Half past 3."

"Oh!" She ground out the end of her cigaret, and gathered up her gloves and handbag.

"I suppose this is goodbye," she said with a faint smile. She saw the sudden pain that leapt to his eyes.

"But I shall see you again?"

"Oh yes." There was a sharp note in her voice now as if something within her was suffering on edge. "Of course I shall come and wave to you and wish you God speed."

She broke off and for a moment they were both silent, looking at one another, then Sondra rose.

"Let us go."

He followed her silently out of the little restaurant into the quiet side street.

His car was standing at the curb—a small, unpretentious affair which Sondra knew was already sold. This was the last time she would ever ride in it, the last time she would ever be with him.

"Heart of a Wife"

BY ADELE GARRISON

Suspicion Against Brixton Is Deepened When It Is Learned That His Night Trip Was Made To Phone Secretly to Owen.

THAT old cliche—a silence that can be cut with a knife" has come to my eyes and ears many times since I first learned to read, but never was the fatness so forcibly impressed upon me as when Wynne handed me father the slip of paper bearing the long distance number which he said Samuel Brixton had called.

It seemed an age that we waited, while my father compared the number on the paper with a page in his notebook, upon which he patiently had jotted down the number of the Philadelphia hotel where Charles Owen was registered and to which Sam Brixton had addressed a telegram upon the night following the kidnaping of Mary and Camden.

Brixton Called Owen

"The number is that of Owen's hotel," my father said at last and then turned to his operative.

"Anything about it?" he asked crisply.

The girl thought he didn't get a chance to speak to the person he asked for." Wynne explained painstakingly. "She thought he had a message that upset him, but she couldn't be sure, because she had several long-distance messages at the same time and she was kept pretty busy. She knows, of course, that he talked to the hotel that was the number he asked for, but about the rest of it she is hazy. That wouldn't be up to her, anyway unless he had put in a personal person call, which he didn't."

"Too foxy for that," Dicky commented, and my father nodded.

"Hugh ought to be back any minute now," he said. "Lee Chow is watching the hotel when Owen is registered. Perhaps he will have told Hugh something of interest."

But when Hugh Grantland came into the room a few minutes later, he permitted his point to slip when he was assured that no person outside those in our plans was present, and betrayed his irritation with his Eastern Chinese friend.

"There are times," he confessed, "when I get a bit fed up with this 'Oriental calm' thing. There isn't an abler man anywhere than Lee Chow. But no matter how much progress he has made in an investigation, he never will express an opinion until he has riveted the last fastener.

"I'm sure he is on the track of something surprising and vital in this Owen matter, but he will only say one word—'Wait.' Tonight, when I told him of Brixton's call and his actions, he added three more words—'Perhaps tomorrow night!'

"'Wait!' Lillian struck in with unexpected vehemence. 'That's all anybody says, and while we wait, who knows—'"

Her voice shuddered away, and she buried her face in her shaking hands.

Lillian's Fears

We sat silent, keenly sympathetic but helpless in the face of her suffering, while her big husband put his arms around her, holding her close but saying no useless words. It was only a few seconds before she drew away from him and sat erect, facing us squarely.

"Please forget this," she said crisply and forgive me for bothering you. But, chief you will tell me if you formulate any plan, won't you?"

"My dear girl!" My father's voice was intensely tender. "You already know everything of which I even have thought. We now must revise plans based upon the information contained in that code letter from Marion. Richard and Hugh agree with me that if you are willing, an attempt at rescuing the girls should be made as soon as possible after Richard succeeds in locating the place Marion has described. But we must have your sanction, because—"

He hesitated, and Lillian finished the sentence for him through white stiff lips.

"Because there is a possibility that the plan may fail? Yes, I know that, but I am leaning on your judgment chief. I know that if Marion does not come back, it will be no fault of yours."

A New Possibility

"If! If! If!" I'm ashamed of you, Lil. Just cutout that kind of talk. You'll only take the courage out of us. There's no 'if' about this business. It's 'when, not 'if'."

It was Dicky who thus lashed savagely at her, and there was something in the lift of her head and in the stiffening of her arms that told me his spur had reached her spirit.

"I stand corrected," she said the pitiful wraith of a smile upon her lips. "'When' it is. But suppose Dicky finds the place tomorrow, when will you plan to lay your ambush?"

"As soon after dark tomorrow night as possible provided Dicky discovers the place in time to follow Marion's instructions as to flight over the house which the girls will interpret as signals. We mustn't run any risk of misleading them, but speed is vital if Owen is concerned in this. We must run no risk of Brixton knowing our plans."

Without conscious volition I found myself voicing the thought that had been beating upon my brain since my interview with Luey.

"Have you thought of the possibility that we may be on the wrong track, and that the Chinese who terrorized us at the farm are responsible for this kidnaping?"

Kellogg Hurls No-Hit, No-Run Game for Huber Against Excavator; Eagles Lose.

BY BOB KIRKPATRICK
Sports Editor, The Star.

The C. D. & M. Electric company softball team discovered to its dismay yesterday that "thar's dynamite in them thar bats" used by the Gasco club in its quest for the Industrial league championship. The Electricians were the victims of a charge of that dynamite in the seventh inning yesterday and as a result are today lodged in a tie for third place rather than in a deadlock for the van position in the circuit. The Gasco nine clubbed out a 5-4 victory and did it all in the last half of the seventh frame after the C. D. & M. had appeared winners of the tilt.

The Marion Steam Shovel company team gave notice it intended to have something to say about who won the Industrial flag by racking up another victory over the Erie Mechanics to retain its share in the first position. The railroaders were beaten by a 5-1 margin. The Eagles were booted out of the four-way tie for first into a two-way tie for third by dropping a game to the Augenstein Athletic club, 3-1. Mutt Kellogg twirled a no-hit, no-run game as the Huber company turned in a 2-0 decision over the Excavator-Alley combine.

Fireworks Aplenty

Bob Gamble of the C. D. & M. is probably still wondering what broke loose in the fatal seventh yesterday Gamble set down the Gasco with almost monotonous regularity for six innings, giving them only six well scattered hits. His mates in the meantime had given him four runs to work on. But in the seventh the fireworks broke loose. Tony Lasboy, the first man up, went out; Russ Young, the next up, banged a four-ply clout off the left field fence. Cahn singled, Richards tripled, Niemeyer singled, Messenger singled, Baldauf singled and Marshall doubled, and the ball game was over, with the Gasco ahead 5-4.

The Marion Steam Shovel rose up in wrath in the fifth inning and jumped on Freddie Vestal's slants for four runs to clinch the victory in the game with the Erie Mechanics. Vestal had held them to one run up to this time. The Shovel batters rapped out seven hits off Vestal while Cook was limiting the railroaders to three, one a homer by Fido Robbins which produced the only run for the losers. Robbins got two of the three hits for the Erie.

No-Hit Contest

Mutt Kellogg clambered into the hall of fame by hurling a no-hit, no-run game against the Excavator-Alley nine. Nine men reached first off Kellogg, four of them on free passes but it did them no good. Only one got as far as second and he reached there on an error. Henry Gilmore twirled a nice game for the Excavator, giving up only four hits but with Kellogg turning in no-hit work, he never had a chance to win the game. Kellogg struck out nine batters.

No scorebook was turned in on the Eagles-Augenstein game.

RUMBLE

SPORTS

BY BOB KIRKPATRICK

Those Mythical Teams

I've felt this coming on for several days. It happens every year when the city softball campaign swings into the home stretch. It concerns the naming of the all-city softball teams for the year. This is an annual custom of cuts "experts" and must be carried through each season despite the lusty yells that always accompany the announcement of the selections.

Looking over the list of last season's all-city men, it becomes evident that several will not be returned to the honorary posts this season. Several stars have come forward to put in their bid for laurels and not all of them will be denied.

Last year's selections were as follows:

FIRST TEAM: Catcher, Wilson; pitchers, Gunder and Shoemaker; first, Cram; second, Sharrock; third, Marshal; shortstop, Roush; left field, Somerlot; center field, Robbins; right field, Simmons; utility, Perry. SECOND TEAM: Catcher, Conroy; pitchers, Gamble and Lindsey; first, Merchant; second, Roseberry; third, Gallant; short, Chapman; left, M. Gibson; center, Niemeyer; right, Dowler and utility, Marquis. THIRD TEAM: Catcher, Conkle; pitchers, Schwaderer and Applegett; first, Ballenger; second, R. Gibson; third, Siefert; short, Staley; left, Martin; center, Mounts; right, O'Connell, and utility, Norris.

How many will repeat for posts this year? Some of them will. A lot of them will not. For instance, some of the stars certain to rate consideration this year but who were not on any of the three lists in 1931 are: Sheehe, St. Mary; Gillis brothers, both of Central Christian; Richards, Lee Street; W. Merchant, Trinity Baptist; R. Walters, Augenstein A. C.; Pohler, Presbyterians; and Lingo, Bishops. That's just a few of them. There are plenty more. Some of last year's stars are almost certain to be on the outside looking in.

Another Star

One day last week during a big hearted moment when I felt like patting someone on the back, I picked out three rookies and named them the three recruits who appeared to be the best "finds" of the current season. They were Jack Ling, Maury Whitcum and Billie Hero.

Since naming these three some one has suggested that perhaps Carol Carls, a youthful infielder with the Serv-U-Wel Grocers of the Commercial league and Christian Seniors of the No. 2 Sunday school loop, deserves some mention for his play to date this season. Carls is playing his first regular season in city competition.

Carol's name should not have been omitted. He has displayed some first class ability on the field, his play being easily on a par with any of the other three named. He is still inexperienced but looks like a certain star in future seasons. The four prize rookies, Ling, Carls, Hero and Whitcum.

Just Bad News

Double headers may be a bargain to the customers but to New York's hapless Giants they are just a double dose of bad news.

In the first nine bargain bills played by the club this year, a clean sweep was made of only one. Three were lost and in five the Giants obtained an even break.

The ninth double header of the season, dropped to the Cincinnati Reds, resulted in Manager Bill Terry's "sad young men of Manhattan" sagging into the National league cellar. Cincinnati obliged the next day by letting them out but the Terrymen are so close to last place most of the time that Terry has not been heard whistling any such tunes as "Happy Days Are Here Again." No siree!

ROSENBLOOM RETAINS LIGHT HEAVY CROWN

Lou Scozza Beaten by Harlem Clown in Battle at Buffalo.

By The Associated Press

BUFFALO, N. Y., July 15—Buffalo's bid for the second half of the disputed light heavyweight championship has failed and Maxie Rosenbloom, the Harlem clown, still rules the 175-pounders as far as the New York State Athletic commission is concerned.

One Buffalo star, George Nichols, already held the National Boxing association light heavyweight crown, when Lou Scozza, another tough Buffalo 175-pounder, entered the ring last night and attempted to dethrone "Slapsie Maxie."

But Scozza took a bad cuffing from the Harlem harlequin through the first ten rounds and a closing rally could not pull him home in front. Rosenbloom won the decision and there were no legitimate protests.

Scozza was floored by a hard right in the seventh and [illegible]

SAMMY VANGLER TO SEEK REVENGE WITH ASHBY AS OPPONENT

Sensational Welters Signed for Monday Night Mat Headliner Here.

Sammy Vangler that smashing little flash of fight whose great mat battles here with Robin Reed are vivid in the memory of local mat fans will attempt next Monday night to get a little revenge at the expense of one Spike Ashby in the outdoor arena at the Steam Shovel athletic field on Humphrey avenue. These two tearing welterweights will mix holds in a best two out of three fall match with a two hour time limit.

These two tough little fellows met here last Vangler, heavy favorite to win, lost when he was disqualified by Referee Beardsley for slugging Ashby.

And it was that disqualification hangs a story.

Vangler positively would not sign a contract to wrestle here again with Beardsley as the referee. Before the match put on by John Henry on the dotted line Matchmaker Cleo Kauffman had to promise Sammy that he would secure a referee other than Beardsley and allow Vangler the privilege of accepting or rejecting the man selected.

I have wrestled in Marion many times and I never have gotten a square deal with Beardsley as the referee (quoth Sammy). I wrestled Reed a hard, fast bout and outwrestled him all the way but had to be content with a draw verdict. There was nothing fair about that and I've never gotten a fair break. I'm going to get what's coming to me from now on or I won't wrestle again.

Ashby had little to say. I'll wrestle the punk without a referee if necessary and the cabbage eared Chicago welterweight.

Just who will be the third man in the ring is as yet undecided. Club Secretary Earl Roach of Columbus, Art Lockwood of Newark, Earl Smedley of Troy, O., Jack Tibalta of Cincinnati or Jimmy Dugan of Charleston, W. Va., have been named as possible officials for the match.

The bitter rivalry between these two little gamecocks is expected to flare into open flame.

However there will be no love sitting on the part of either man. Kauffman has had a definite understanding with both men on that point and both have been informed that the referee who is to be selected will be instructed to disqualify immediately the first one who strikes a low blow.

Nick Bozinis, the much improved Greek light heavyweight who showed to such advantage in his draw battle with Freddy Moran of Boston will appear on the semi-final meeting the tough Cleve Welch, newcomer from the east in the semi-final tilt.

ZEALOUS ZEALANDER

J. W. Savidan, New Zealand's famous long distance runner, is shown as he went through his paces in a workout at Los Angeles, recently. Savidan is expected to provide strong competition in the 5,000 and 10,000-meter Olympic events, as well as carrying his country's

HAUSER'S HOME RUN BAT HELPS MILLERS IN DRIVE FOR FLAG

Columbus Dropped Again by Minneapolis, 6-4; Indians Also Thumped.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, July 15—Joe Hauser hasn't managed to break into the .300 circle of batsmen, but his home run bat is working on a production basis and his long hits have won Minneapolis plenty of ball games.

The Millers yesterday slapped Columbus down for the fifth straight time, increasing its leadership in the American Association to four full games, and it was Hauser's bat that earned the decision. The Red Birds had a 4 to 1 edge going into the last of the eighth inning but pinch batsman Art Ruble got a homer with one on to tie the score, and Hauser clinched the 6 to 4 decision with his twenty-eighth home run of the season with Joe Mowry aboard.

Milwaukee also finished its game with Indianapolis under protest, but the apsawk probable will be forgotten as the Brewers won, 5 to 4 in ten innings. Umpire Dineen ruled foul what looked to Manager O'Rourke like a homer by Ted Gullic, which would have been his second of the game.

St. Paul took a 4 to 2 victory over Toledo. Howard Craghead gave the Saints only five hits, but two of them were home runs by Paul Hopkins and Will Norman.

Kansas City had Louisville completely quelled going into the seventh inning, enjoying a 7 to 2 margin at that point. The Colonels, however, came to life and won the contest, 10 to 8.

CAR, TRUCK MEET IN HEADON COLLISION

Machine Driven By Marion Man In Traffic Crash.

Misjudging the position of the truck on the road, Frank Coons of 220 North Grand avenue, driving a Ford coupe crashed into a truck loaded with tomatoes on the Delaware road just south of Norton early last night. Coons was uninjured, although the car was wrecked. A damaged steering gear made it impossible for the truck to continue. The cargo was brought to this city on a truck furnished by Harrold Bros. garage on Campbell street.

The accident occurred at a small hill just south of Norton. Coon, who was going south, said he believed the truck driver was swinging to the opposite side of the road and turned his car over just in time to meet the truck headon. The damaged coupe was brought to the Haberman Chevrolet garage on West Carter street and the truck was brought to the Harrold Bros. garage this afternoon. The truck is owned by a Columbus firm.

"BORDER DEVILS" AT STATE; HARRY CAREY TAKES LEADING ROLE

"Border Devils," starring Harry Carey, opened for a first run showing today at the State theater.

HARRY CAREY

Supporting the star are his leading woman, Kathleen Collins and Niles Welch and Olive Fuller Golden. The picture will continue through Saturday.

Border Devils is a detective story with Harry Carey, himself accused of murder, breaking jail to assume the role of amateur detective in an effort to clear himself and identify the mysterious criminal.

The setting is on the western ranges and provides excellent scenery. A thrilling climax is reached in the picture with the capture of the real head of the gang of outlaws and Carey cleared of the charges against him.

The Stars Say—

For Saturday, July 16.

THE astral forces for this day seem to point to some great unrest, confusion or disturbance of an abrupt and unforeseen nature, with bearing possible on the private relations rather than business. In this respect it would be well to be especially circumspect and sensible in domestic, social and romantic affiliations, particularly the latter, lest sensational or unconventional situations arise. It is an auspicious time to promote negotiations by diplomacy, intrigue or strategy, mainly in connection with rings, mergers or secret societies. Be careful with funds.

Those whose birthday it is stand at the door of a year of unusual events, with probably unconventional or sensational flavor to the private affairs. Social, domestic and romantic affiliations may not prove routine or orthodox. A child born on this day may be disposed to unusual or peculiar things, intrigue, diplomacy and may have a sensational or unique career.

Sharing honors with Roland Leeper, who owns a penny bearing the date of 1802, is Dr. C. E. Turley, pastor of Epworth M. E. church, who recently was presented one of the same vintage. Dr Turley's letter containing this information was mailed from Santa Claus, Ind.

The numerals 1800 proclaim the age of a large United States cent owned by John E. Lewis of 554 North State street. The coin is in a perfect state of preservation and bears the profile of a woman with the word "Liberty" over it. The money was carried as a pocket piece by Mr. Lewis' great-grandfather, William B Lewis, who was sheriff of Marion county in 1806.

First Aid

The discovery by Wayne W. Bierce of Avondale avenue of a rattlesnake along a Marion county stream has prompted Dr. N. Sifritt, county health commissioner, to reiterate the warning contained in a recent issue of the Ohio Health News, organ of the state department of health.

The warning, in part, follows:

"It is advisable for those who walk in the woods to wear at all times high shoes and stout leggings. It is sensible, also, when climbing rocks, to see where one places his hands. Ledges covered with brush or piles of rock overgrown with grass and briars are favorite places for snakes.

"Dr H G Southard state director of health, says preparedness should involve the possession of a safety razor blade and, if it is impossible to provide anti-venom serum, a generous supply of permanganate of potash crystals. Treatment should be immediate in any case of snakebite, he declares.

"The snake's fangs make two punctures. An incision approximately three-eighths of an inch deep should be made between them, followed by sucking of the wound unless one has gums with a tendency to bleed. A tourniquet should be applied above the wound on the limb affected. The serum should be promptly administered under the skin.

"It should be remembered that both the anti-venom serum and the permanganate are first aid unless there is a physician at hand to take the case at once. After the use of either, the patient should be hurried to the nearest doctor."

NEVADA MINISTER TO START SERIES

The general public is invited to attend the services.

Marion and Vicinity Is Setting for Novel by Former Resident of City

A new novel written by a former Marion resident and in which Marion, Prospect and adjoining towns are named in providing a setting for some of the incidents will be of interest to readers here because of these associations and also will provide an evening of entertaining reading.

The author, Joseph Neal Brown of Fort Smith, Ark., is a brother of Mrs. Dick R. Brunn of 201 Bradford street and lived here about 10 years ago. He has a wide circle of friends in Marion and is a frequent visitor at the home of his sister. He has chosen to call his book, "Striking Resemblance."

The novel is the first to be published by Mr. Brown who is an attorney by profession and an author because the work supplants golf and other entertainment as recreation and a hobby. He was educated at Yale and Harvard and has attained prominence in professional circles throughout his state. At Yale Mr. Brown became closely acquainted with William Lyon Phelps and the friendship has been kept up since the close of his college career.

Mr. Brown is married and has two children, a daughter and son. His book is dedicated to the "four Lucys," his wife, mother, daughter and sister.

The story is an interesting character study of Horatio Dunnington and centers around his own and the life of his daughter, Mary and her friends. The setting is quite modern and pictures Dunnington as a great financier and man of affairs in the business world where his word is law, and his daughter, Mary, a wilful, spoiled heiress. Dunnington's love for his daughter is his one likeable quality and his one weakness is a beautiful widow whose flattery outwits him to her own advantage. That the Dunnington name assures Mrs. Dunnington the highest position in society in this country and Europe means little to her and if she experiences any difficulty in fitting into the pattern of her husband's life she keeps the matter to herself. There are readers who will find in the story a moral and others will agree that it is just life.

Girl Resembles Daughter

A short distance out of Bellefontaine the train on which Dunnington is riding strikes a car in which two people are killed and another seriously injured. The resemblance of Phyllis Flynn, the injured girl, to his daughter Mary upsets him considerably and awakens his interest to the extent that at Marion he sees that she is placed in a hospital to receive the best of care. The girl's home is in Prospect where she lives with an aunt.

The Dunnington's neighbors are the Robinson's and it is Harold Robinson in whom Mary is most interested in her gay life of men, parties and motors. Shortly after her mother's sudden death she marries Harold's best friend, a studious, mild-mannered youth who pays his wife's bills without murmuring and accepts her taunts silently.

Harold's marriage to the girl who resembles Mary so much and Mr. Dunnington's meeting with Phyllis again bring the story to a pleasing climax.

The author tells a readable story and draws his characters with a pleasing and vivid reality. Harold's father is a most charming fellow, concerned mostly with his son's welfare and Phyllis' friend, Ann, would make a delightful wife for Murrey, Dunnington's son-in-law.

Cooling Breezes of Lake Beckon Sunday Motorists

Pleasant resorts along Lake Erie and the lake's cooling breezes have prompted Mrs. D. V. Gallagher, secretary of the Marion Auto club, to propose another northward drive in the series of week-end tours.

This drive will cover a 33-mile strip of lake front, from Lorain to Sandusky, and will make available to motorists all the enjoyments of beaches, amusement parks, lake rides and fishing.

The proposed route lies over route 58 S to the east from Marion to Mansfield where route 42 is to be followed from Mansfield to the northeast to Ashland. At Ashland strike route 58 to the northeast and follow it through Nankin, Sullivan, Lagrange and Oberlin to Lorain.

In Oberlin a drive through Oberlin college campus will prove interesting. This college will celebrate its centennial next year. It was the first college in the world to admit women on equal terms with men and the first in the United States to admit Negroes on equal terms with whites.

After proceeding to Lorain, pass westward on routes 6 and 2. These lie through Vermilion and Huron, as well as through many beaches and resorts along the lakefront, and bring the motorist to Sandusky.

Cedar Point, Put-in-Bay, Lake side and other interesting points are within easy reach from Sandusky.

The most direct route back to Marion has over route 4 from Sandusky to this city by way of Attica and Bucyrus.

DRIVER IS RELEASED FOR TRIAL JULY 26

Upon his plea of not guilty to a charge of driving an automobile while intoxicated, F. A. Schroeter, 67, of 287 North Main street, who was arrested on North Main street Wednesday night after his car collided with another machine, was released under $100 bond by acting Municipal Judge J. D. Williamson yesterday afternoon for a hearing July 26 at 3 p. m.

Police, who arrested Schroeter, said he failed to straighten up the car's wheels after turning from Center onto Main street and, while traveling in a circle, hit a machine occupied by two women, whose names were not learned. After the second machine had been removed from its path, police said, the car continued in its circular journey onto the sidewalk. The cars were not seriously damaged in the collision.

SET HEARING DATE IN ASSAULT CASE

D. Williamson for a hearing at 9:30 a. m. Thursday, July 21.

The assault, according to the police, was the result of an argument over a promise made by Postle to work out a bill held against him by Fellebaum.

WELL TOOTS! SOPHIE FINALLY TOLD US ABOUT THAT TIME IN KENTUCKY, AND THE BIG SECRET IN COLONEL HOOFER'S PAST WAS THAT HE ONCE RAN THE WRONG WAY IN A FOOTBALL GAME! THAT WAS NOTHING! I'VE MADE WORSE MISTAKES THAN THAT! I KNEW ALL THE TIME SOPHIE WAS MAKING A BIG NOISE ABOUT NOTHING!
SOPHIE, DARLING! PLEASE DON'T STAY MAD AT ME! I'M SORRY I PRETENDED TO BE A DUKE, BUT I ONLY DID IT TO STOP YOU FROM DIVORCING ME BECAUSE I LOVE YOU, SOPHIE!
IT SERVES ME RIGHT, DAN! IT WENT TO MY HEAD WHEN I THOUGHT I WAS A DUCHESS AND I ACTED SO STUCK UP! WON'T THAT SILLY OF ME?
WILL YOU MAKE UP WITH ME, SOPHIE?
I'VE THOUGHT THE WHOLE THING OVER, DAN, AND I'VE DECIDED THERE ARE WORSE HUSBANDS THAN YOU!
SOPHIE THIS IS THE HAPPIEST MOMENT OF MY LIFE! NOW GIVE PAPA A NICE BIG KISS!
I HAD A LOT OF FUN THINKING I WAS A DUCHESS EVEN THOUGH IT WASN'T TRUE! IT WAS THE BIGGEST THRILL OF MY WHOLE LIFE, AND I THANK YOU FOR THAT!

Conover; Daniel B. Krause; William H. Long, sometimes spelled "Longe," otherwise known as W. H. Long and Mary E. Long, his wife, J. F. McNeal, Assignee for the benefit of creditors of William H. Long, [illegible]

[illegible] plaintiff, the [illegible] and of the above named defendants, [illegible] defendants, [illegible] will take notice that on the 13th day of June, 1932, the said Fidella Shriner, Florence Meyers, Nellie Haines, David Mullee and Tom Mullee filed their certain petition in the Court of Common Pleas of Marion County, Ohio as Plaintiffs in Cause No. 22457, on the docket of said court, against the above described and designated persons as defendants, alleging among other things that said plaintiffs are seized in fee simple and are in actual possession of the following described real estate:

Situated in the Town of Marion and State of Ohio, and known as the South half of the chair factory lot described as follows:

A part of the Southwest quarter of Section 22, Marion Township, in the Village of Marion, beginning at the Northwest corner of said quarter section, thence Eastward on the half section line to the intersection of the center of West Street produced in the Village of Marion, Ohio; thence Southward along the center of said Street to the intersection of the North line of the alley being on the North side of Lots No. 61 and 62 in Baker's Addition to the Village of Marion; thence Westward on said line to the West line of said Section 22; thence North on said section line to the beginning being all the whole two-thirds of said premises or less, subject to all legal highways being the property conveyed to Mary Moffee by deed recorded in Deed Book 53, Page 156, Marion County, Ohio, reference.

Said petition further alleges that each of the defendants and each and all of them claim some interest and estate in and upon said real estate which is adverse to that of the plaintiffs and to said plaintiffs' title, that said defendants and each and all of them have no estate or interest in or upon said real estate or any part thereof, and that all such claims, or pretended claims or liens are wholly unfounded and without right and cast a cloud upon plaintiffs title to said real estate and praying in said petition that the defendants and each and all of them may be compelled to show their estate or interest in or lien upon said real estate, or any part thereof, and that the same may be adjudged to be null and void and that plaintiffs title to said real estate may be quieted against said defendants and each of them, and that said defendants and each and all of them may be forever barred from asserting any estate or interest in or lien upon said real estate or any part thereof, and for all such further relief as is proper and equitable. That each and all of said defendants are required to appear and answer said petition on or before the 13th day of August, 1932 or that judgment will be taken against them as prayed for in Plaintiffs' petition.

WHEAT PRICES IN EARLY GAIN

Relative Strength of Liverpool Market Has Bullish Influence at Chicago.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, July 15—Grain prices made an early upturn today, influenced by relative strength of the Liverpool wheat market owing to scantiness of shipments from Argentine. Total Argentine wheat exports this week were only 465,000 bushels against 1,973,000 last week and 1,626,000 a year ago. Opening at ⅛@¼ advance, Chicago wheat futures held near the initial range. Corn started ¼@⅜ higher, and then continued firm.

AS GOOD AS IN

WOMEN ATHLETES IN OLYMPIC TRIALS

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, July 15—The country's woman athletes, crowded out of the Olympic picture by the activities and arguments of the men's division, will do some important running, jumping and throwing of their own tomorrow at Dyche stadium, Northwestern university.

The occasion has been labelled the national women's A. A. U. championship, but that angle of the affair will be well subordinated by the fact that the girls will make their bids for places on the Olympic team.

More than 200 entries from 22 states have been received, and the latest includes nearly every American record holder.

Adopting the principle of anti-skid chains for automobiles, an English woman has invented overshoes made of wire netting to prevent persons slipping on ice.

TOP FLIGHT LIKED IN ARLINGTON RACE

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, July 15. This was the day before the $70,000 added classic at Arlington park richest stake race of the nation this year—and it looked like the field against C. V. Whitney's Top Flight!

Not one of the owners of the other great and near-great three-year-olds entered appeared greatly concerned however over the favoritism bestowed on the Whitney filly.

There was heavy backing for Faireno and the railbirds were impressed by the shoeing Dr. F. Fred Adams' colt, Rehoboth, made in a classic trial last Tuesday.

Hoover Takes Firm Stand on Debt Revision Question

President's Letter to Sen. Borah Warns That America Will Not Be Bludgeoned into Change of Policy by European Agreement.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, July 15—The administration does not intend to let the United States be bludgeoned into a revision of war debts by any concerted agreement of European nations if there is one.

The attitude of America toward rapid developments following the Lausanne conference and "gentlemen's agreement" was expressed this way by President Hoover in a letter to Chairman Borah of the senate foreign relations committee.

"While I do not assume it to be the purpose of any of these agreements to effect a combined action of our debtors, if it shall be so interpreted then I do not propose that the American people shall be pressed into any line of action or that our policies shall be in any way influenced by such a combination either open or implied."

Mr. Hoover expressed gratification at settlement "of the strictly European problem of reparations" but said he wanted to make it "absolutely clear" that the United States is not "in any way committed to such agreements."

The state department was particularly interested in official British statements attempting to wipe out any impression that European nations were combining to force war debt revision by the United States. They expressed pleasure at the British position that the Anglo-French accord would not keep Great Britain from discussing war debts individually with the United States.

It was made clear once more that the American position is the same as in June 1931, when President Hoover proclaimed the one-year moratorium. He opposed debt cancellation but expressed the opinion the American people would not want to force any other nation to pay more than it could.

The possibility of individual discussion with debtor nations has been left open, so long as they have not made preliminary combining agreements.

But when interested onlookers here saw indications of what they thought might be a step toward a combination in Europe, they became skeptical. Senator Borah first obtained from Secretary Stimson forceful assurance that American representatives had not committed this government to anything as a result of the Lausanne meeting; then the President sent his letter to the senator.

England Ponders Letter of Hoover

LONDON, July 15—Great Britain pondered President Hoover's letter to Senator Borah today, in which he declared the United States would not be pressed on the debt question by any combination in Europe, but the general attitude seemed to be that the question was cleared up by the official explanations here yesterday.

The letter was the big news of the day in morning papers.

Although it came too late for extended editorial comment in London papers, it was pointed out that the Downing street statement of yesterday showed there was no intention in the Lausanne gentlemen's agreement or the latter Anglo-French accord, to form a united front against the United States.

Surprise was expressed at contrary interpretation placed upon the agreement by Premier Herriot of France, but this point was not greatly emphasized except by general acceptance of Prime Minister MacDonald's denial that any war debt bloc was authorized.
